Overhead Projectors

Overhead Projector Definitions

Transmissive	The most commonly used overhead projector format with the light source positioned in the base under the projection stage. The light is projected upward through the transparency and reflected by the head toward the screen. Apollo® items: 3400, 3000, 3002, 16000.
Head Type	Open, duckbill-type head, recommended for most applications, delivers a slightly brighter light than the closed-head type. Closed-head type provides lens protection from fingerprints and dust and is perfect for school use or for industrial environments.
Lumens	A measurement of light intensity taken at the source of the light. 2,000-4,000 lumens recommended for most transparencies; 4,000+ lumens for detailed, dense-color transparencies, large rooms and uncontrollable environmental lighting areas.
Lamp Type	Standard 3-letter lamp designations as defined by American National Standards Institute (ANSI). Apollo® items: 3000, 3002, 16000, – use EYB lamp. 3400 uses EVD Lamp.

Stage	The clear glass platform from which transparencies are projected. Larger stages accommodate full 8 1/2" x 11" transparency sheets in horizontal or vertical orientation.
Lamp Changer	Allows the user to instantly change lamps by simply flipping a switch, in the event of a lamp blowout. Prevents embarrassing delays in the middle of presentations. Apollo® items: 3400, 3000, 3002, 16000.
Lens Element	The number of individual elements that make up a projection lens. The greater number of elements, the better the quality of the projected image.
High/Low Switch	Light output control switch that allows the user to use lower lumen output for simple transparency presentations and higher lumen output for color dense transparency slides. Use of the low setting maximizes lamp life. Apollo® items: 3400, 3000, 3002.
